1. Introduction

Vocational school is aimed at giving students knowledge and skills to be competent in job field. As stated in Permendiknas no.22 tahun 2008.

“Pendidikan kejuruan bertujuan untuk meningkatkan kecerdasan, pengetahuan, kepribadian, akhlak mulia, serta keterampilan peserta didik untuk hidup mandiri dan mengikuti pendidikan lebih lanjut sesuai dengan program kejurumannya”.

Considering to the objective of vocational school, therefore the curriculum and the course program are designed to be agree with the objective of vocational school. All course programs are aimed at promoting students' competency in any kind of job field. English in vocational school is considered as English for Specific Purpose in which the focus is on learners' need that is being competent in their job field. English then is seen as a communication tool in workplace, therefore the English program is required to help students to communicate in English in workplace context.

There are three kind of English proficiency levels in vocational high school: novice, elementary, and intermediate. In novice level (year X), the students learn English in daily life context. In elementary level (year XI), the students learn English that related to the job. In intermediate level (year XII), the students learn English for all vocational competence programs. In this level, the learning materials are more specified to the field of job they want. English language activities that are closely related to the students' vocational skill are more developed in year XI and XII.

Here, I developed a summative assessment tool that aimed at assessing students' knowledge after learning one unit. This assessment tool is designed for year XII students in semester 1 concerned with the topic of taking and making a reservation. At this topic, the students are expected to be able to:

1. Responding to dialogue about reservation (listening)
2. Making reservation (speaking)
3. Identifying the main ideas and supporting ideas of text about reservation (reading)
4. Writing to a reply and completing reservation form (writing)

The assessment tool is developed to assess those four objectives from receptive skills (listening-reading) to productive skills (speaking and writing). In listening and reading, the students are expected to perform their ability in finding specific information about reservation based on dialogue and written text. In speaking and writing, the students are expected to perform their ability in making reservation in written and spoken.

2. Structure of the assessment tool

This assessment tool is developed based on unit 2 which is dealing with clients taken from book entitled “Communication Builder: English for Vocational School. For Intermediate Level (Grade XII) of Vocational School (SMK/MAK)”. The topic of this unit is reservation in which the objectives of this unit are:

1. Listening
Responding to dialogues about reservations
2. Speaking
Making reservations
3. Reading
Identifying the main ideas and supporting ideas of texts about reservations
4. Writing
Writing a reply to a reservation letter and completing reservations forms

Referring to those objectives, this assessment tool is developed for a summative test at the end of the unit. There are 5 tasks for 4 kind language skills; listening, speaking, reading, and writing. In listening, the students are given dialogues about a hotel reservation then they are asked to answer the questions related to the dialogue. The objective of this task is to assess
